Prices and rankings as of the close on Friday, January 2, 2026

Contents

Rankings Overview:.....	1
S&P 500® Stocks, objectively ranked in order of long-term Relative Strength:.....	2
NASDAQ 100 Stocks, objectively ranked in order of long-term Relative Strength:.....	14
Terms of Use: .....	18

Overview:

To determine our rankings, we first measure trend momentum of each stock over a long time-frame spanning many months, according to our objective formula. Next, we rank all stocks from highest to lowest momentum.

Research studies suggest that stocks ranked in the top decile may have a greater probability of outperforming the market in the months ahead, while low ranked stocks may have a greater probability of underperforming (top decile=1, bottom decile=10). For details on Relative Strength Ranking, please see Robert W. Colby's book, The Encyclopedia of Technical Market Indicators, Second Edition (2003), pages 604-609, or see our White Paper, "Introduction to the Screening Method for Analysis of Relative Strength", by Robert W. Colby, CMT, outlining some of the research behind our Relative Strength Ranking Method.

Please note that this is a high-volatility strategy: the stocks that go up the most when the stock market is in a Bullish trend often go down the most during market corrections to the downside. In addition, please note that this list is a research study and is not investment advice. Your use of this report means that you have read, understood, and accepted our Disclaimer on the last 2 pages of this report.

Rank, Interpretation

Bullish =  = Buy/Hold.

Bearish =  = Avoid/Sell.

Any other color combination=

Neutral =  ,  , ,  , or = Avoid/Sell.

Defining Multiple Time Frames for Classifying Trends: It is important to understand that markets often display very different and conflicting trends, depending on the specific time period analyzed. Nearly a century ago, the Dow Theory established a useful way to organize time/trend information. In harmony with the Dow Theory, we organize our analysis into 4 different time frames, as follows:

1. Intraday fluctuations and day-to-day price jiggles are too small, too random, and change too frequently to be useful to anyone except elite professional traders or algorithms.
2. Short-term trends typically last up to 2–4 weeks, and prices typically move only a few points. These trends change frequently, often in reaction to the latest news and rumors, and so they are fickle and unreliable. The Dow Theory views these minor ripples as insignificant noise. Although skillful traders may be able to profit from short-term price movements, most investors cannot. The S&P 500 has crossed its 20-day SMA every 25 calendar days on average over the past 50 years, roughly matching this short-term trend.
3. Medium-term trends typically last about 1–4 months and can produce price moves of 5%–15%. These intermediate or secondary trends can move in the same direction as the major trend or can be consolidations or corrections against (opposite to) the direction of the major trend. The 50-day and 200-day SMAs can help to identify these trends. The S&P 500 index has crossed its 50-day SMA every 6 weeks on average over the past 50 years, and the index has crossed its 200-day SMA every 3–4 months on average over the past 50 years.
4. Major long-term trends are very big price moves that can last for years. Prices can move 20%–50%, or more. The major long-term trend is also known as the primary, dominant, and main trend. Major long-term trends are highly significant for all traders and investors. We always trade in the direction of the major trend, buying long in bull markets and selling long or selling short in bear markets, because that puts the probability of making money in our favor. Trading opposite to the major trend (that is, buying long in a bear market or selling short in a bull market) would put the odds against us and can lead to disastrous losses. All traders and investors can profit by trading in the same direction as the most important major trend. For the S&P 500, the 50-day SMA crossed the 200-day SMA every 23 months on average over the past 50 years, roughly matching this trend.

Relative Strength: academic studies and extensive experience show that probabilities favor buying the strongest trading instruments and avoiding weaker, underperforming ones. Although no market strategy is foolproof, buying and holding the strongest instruments has produced above-average returns in most years and is one of the most effective methods for selecting specific regions, countries, sectors, industries, stocks, bonds, or tangible assets for investment.

Investor Sentiment is mainly useful for short-term, counter-trend trading. Markets are complex adaptive systems that reflect the emotions of the crowd reacting to contradictory and incomplete information as well as changing decision rules. Prices tend to swing to emotional extremes of optimism and pessimism. When there is a great majority of bulls, few investors are left to buy, and rallies can suddenly fizzle and reverse. Conversely, when there is a majority of bears, few investors are left to sell, and short-squeeze rallies suddenly can appear seemingly out of nowhere. Moderate sentiment tends to coincide with uncertain, indecisive markets. Note that sentiment extremes are often early, and momentum can sustain a trend in motion beyond sentiment extremes. The Art of Contrary Opinion is not a science; it is an art lacking consistent rules.

Robert W. Colby Asset Management, Inc. (Colby) hereby certifies that the views expressed in this research report accurately reflect the personal views of the Company's Chief Investment Officer, Robert W. Colby, CMT, and/or other trained members of Colby, about any and all of the subject markets or securities, and further certifies that no part of the compensation of Colby was, is, or will be directly or indirectly related to the recommendations or views in this report. Colby is engaged in investment management as well as the conduct and publication of professional-quality, independent technical analysis research and, as a matter of policy, always makes best efforts to be as objective and unbiased as possible.

Any and all statements referring to Robert W. Colby Asset Management, Inc., performance are intended to be accurate and complete and to disclose all material facts necessary to avoid any unwarranted inference. Any and all investment performance data shown reflect all accounts in our recommended investment program. (Some clients, at their own choosing, may hold securities that are not included in our recommended investment program, or they may choose to deviate from our program in some other way; therefore, their performance results may deviate from our recommended investment program, for better or worse, and are not included in our performance data.) Our performance data reflects the deduction of advisory fees, brokerage or other commissions and fees, and any other expenses that accounts have actually paid. Our performance data reflects the reinvestment of dividends, interest, and other earnings. Our investment strategies and all fees are explained on our website and in our disclosure documents and also are available on request.

The industry standard benchmark for performance comparison is generally the S&P 500 Index, although that and all other price indexes have certain limitations in that they differ from our recommended investment program in volatility, asset mix, diversification/concentration, dividends, interest, trading costs, fees, and other factors. Unlike the S&P 500 Index, which passively reflects the price performance of 500 large-capitalization stocks, our recommended investment program is concentrated in relatively few securities and actively aims first for capital preservation and second for capital appreciation. We work continuously to achieve these goals. We try to anticipate and adapt to change. Regulators point out that there can never be any guarantees in investing; there is always risk and the possibility of loss; changing market conditions are beyond anyone's control; and past performance is not a guide to future performance.

Colby's technical analysis is prepared using widely-available public data that is generally accepted as reasonably reliable, although Colby cannot guarantee accuracy or completeness of data and analysis and no representation is made to that effect. Colby's technical analysis is based primarily on analysis of the current price and volume performance of a security relative to other securities and in the context of its historical patterns of performance, in accordance with the Body of Knowledge and Code of Ethics endorsed by the CMT Association, the globally-recognized, professional regulatory organization for technical analysts established in 1973. See: <https://cmtassociation.org/>

Investments discussed in this report are not suitable for all investors. This report does not take into account the investment objectives, financial situation or specific needs of any particular investor. Every investor should consider whether any suggestion or recommendation is appropriate given his particular circumstances. Technical analysis alone should not be relied upon as the sole basis for making investment decisions. All publicly available information regarding the security in question should be reviewed, including the fundamentals of the security and other information provided in any filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

Although persons and companies associated with Colby may from time to time hold positions in securities mentioned in these research reports, Colby's policy proscribes any employee activity that would conflict with client interests.
